

5 Resources for Visual Supports in the Home and School

Do2Learn Website with Visual Supports Resources - This website is wonderful for anyone considering visual supports in the home or classroom. It provides considerations for layout of the schedule as well as a variety of examples that you can download and begin to use today!

Creating and Using Social Stories - The Head Start Center for Inclusion website provides general information about the purpose of social stories, when to use them, how to create and use social stories and offers a variety of ready-made social stories to download and use in the classroom or home.

Visual Supports and Autism Spectrum Disorder - We all use visual supports to stay organized. This website provides insight into why visual supports are so helpful for individuals diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder and examples of the types of supports to use.

Individual and Visual Schedules from PBIS - This website from PBIS World provides a variety of resources and samples of downloadable visual schedules to be used in the classroom.

Tips and Ideas for Making Visual Supports for Students with Challenging Behavior - This handout is from The Center on Social and Emotional Foundations for Early Learning, Vanderbilt University.

For more information and resources visit www.simplifybehavior.com